The Property of a Collector,

- 159 AN EXTREMELY FINE SET OF SIX ITALIAN NEEDLE-WORK PANELS, c. 1680, from designs by Bérain, ENTIRELY IN FINE "PETIT POINT" STITCH

These panels have a design of various Italian comedy figures beneath an archway formed of a trellis of vines, supported by pillars and flanked by birds, at the base of which are bay trees in pots on pedestals ; the background representing the walls of a salon with an elaborate decoration of birds, winged heads, caryatid figures, vases and festoons of flowers.

At the top of each panel is an oval shield bearing the arms of Requesens impaling those of Branceforte, the former being a Catalan and the latter a Sicilian family.

All the panels are 10ft. 9in. high, four of them having a width of 3ft. 6in., and the remaining two one of 7ft. 7in.

The colouring of the panels is most harmonious, the design is very pleasing and they form an unique decoration for a room ; added to which is the extreme difficulty of finding a set of such fine work and so well preserved as these are.
